A serious and probably fatal accident occurred on the Southern just above Beauford's Crossing last Thursday when the motor car on which Section Boss Bundrick and his crew were riding jumped the rails and turned over pinning Mr. Bundrick and a colored laborer, David Wharton, under the car. Mr. Bundrick received severe bruises on the face and right shoulder with possible internal injuries.

The colored man's right leg was so badly injured that it is feared that it will have to be amputated.

The rest of the crew escaped with bruises and cuts.

Several Children

Last week when the first flash of lightning of the season took things up for a while and put lights and cook stoves out of business, the flash struck a tree in the yard at the home of Mr. J. Allen Smith, Jr., and in addition to frightening the family, shocked some of the children. Mrs. Smith phoned her husband to "come home at once, that several of the children had been shocked." ### JOHN HENRY GROWS RESENTFUL AND BREAKS MAIL CARRIERS ARM

Walter Winn, mail carrier, had the misfortune of having his faithful, but long suffering "John Henry", turn on him last Friday and in a rebellious mood break his arm. The fracture is more or less uncomfortable and incapacitating, but not serious and will mend with the usual matter of time. Considering the question of the roads that the mail carriers force their machines through, literally, and not over, with no thought of the machine and less for the carrier one wonders why even more John Henrys have not shown and effective manner. They come to it sooner or later.

It is hard on Mr. Winn that the flivver should thus have found ex-resentment in some simple, frangible presson on him and his friends hope that he will soon be back on his route, more careful of his Ford, more wary of its mood.

GOOD ROADS BILL PASSED BY CONGRESS

Columbia, Feb. 27.—The famous good roads bill of the South Carolina legislature was passed by the senate today and sent back to the house for concurrence in slight amendments. This means that the legislature has after two years of hard struggling over the problem of highways passed a bill that is purposed to get South Carolina out of the mud. As amended by the senate, the bill makes an executive secretary the salaried officer of the state highway department instead of a chairman, as provided by the house, and instead of a chief engineer as at present.

The bill is also amended to fix the license on motor trucks from fifteen dollars for one ton trucks to $350 for seven ton trucks or heavier. The amendment also prohibits the use of trucks heavier than four ton without special permission from county authorities. The road bill provides a tax of two mills in addition to the motor vehicle license for the building a state system of roads.
